But the last one chose to dig a hole in the ground and hide his. He explained he knew the Master better than the other two stewards. He portrayed the Master as a depraved man who reaps where he does not sow. So he acted like a steward who didn't want his Lord to profit from his labour. We saw how the Lord responded to each of them; the first two received commendations and the third received condemnation. The parable closed with an important truth: anyone who has will not have will have the little he has taken who has.

There is no such thing as a superior personality. God created your personality as a result of what He intends to do in and through your life. So don't strive to be someone else. Be who God created you to be, because that is part of your ministry.

anyone because we are all unique and created to compliment one another. There is no room for rivalry. In fact, Apostle Paul stated that those who compete amongst themselves are not wise. God created you uniquely to make your own contribution. We are sometimes should not be the case, especially in spiritual matters, for God judges differently from humans. Things that people look down on on Earth may be highly important in heaven. When you understand this, you will always be confident in who God created you to be and will live a wonderful life. Do not be like the last servant, who hid his skill and refused to use it.

God desires to reap the benefits of His investments in our lives. When we deny him those benefits, we irritate God. We can see how He reacted to the servant who refused to exercise his skill. We must recognize the hazards of not identifying; developing and employing the gifts that God has given you. Many of us have been in this church for a long time but are not contributing anything; we are merely consumers of the effort of others. These people get a kick out of criticizing what others do. I challenge you to play your part while allowing others to play theirs. To achieve God's divine purpose on earth, each of us must complete our own task.
